

Work in Liberation Essentials

At-a-Glance Guide to Transformative Work

"The future of work is not about finding a job—it's about creating a world where work serves life."

What if work healed our communities and planet instead of exploiting them?

Work in Liberation is a global movement transforming how humans organize productive activity. Instead of survival jobs and gig platform exploitation, we're building Community Work Teams that serve real needs while respecting both people and ecosystems.

The Vision: Work With Purpose

By 2045: 50% of people worldwide participate in meaningful work focused on:

- Care: Supporting elders, children, families, and community wellbeing
- Creativity: Arts, innovation, education, and cultural preservation
- Planet Health: Ecological restoration, regenerative agriculture, clean energy

Instead of: Extractive industries, exploitative gig platforms, and survival anxiety driving desperate competition.

How It Works: Five Core Principles

1. Work as Planetary Contribution

Every project helps heal rather than harm our ecosystems and communities.

2. Freedom from Survival Work

Universal Basic Income (AUBI) ensures no one takes exploitative jobs just to survive.

3. Fair, Plural Rewards

Contributions recognized through Hearts (care work) and Leaves (ecological work) currencies alongside traditional payment.

4. Human-AI Symbiosis

Technology serves human creativity and connection rather than replacing or surveilling workers.

5. Ecological and Social Justice

Priority given to marginalized communities and environmental restoration over profit extraction.

The Tools: Getting Started

Community Work Teams

Self-organizing groups of 3-8 neighbors collaborating on meaningful projects under democratic governance.

Love Ledger

Digital system (in development) tracking contributions and distributing Hearts/Leaves recognition.

Flexible Time

Maximum 15-hour work weeks by 2035, with neurodiversity support and cultural rhythm accommodation.

Indigenous Leadership

All work guided by Traditional Ecological Knowledge and Bioregional Autonomous Zone governance.

Three Ways to Get Involved

Start Local: Form a Community Work Team

1. Gather 3-5 interested neighbors
2. Use our Community Work Team Starter Kit
3. Choose a small first project (community garden, elder support, etc.)
4. Begin tracking contributions for future Hearts/Leaves recognition

Join Existing Efforts

- Connect with Community Work Teams in your area
- Support Indigenous-led ecological restoration projects
- Participate in cooperative businesses and mutual aid networks

Support the Movement

- Follow Love Ledger development: github.com/GlobalGovernanceFrameworks/love-ledger
 - Advocate for AUBI and worker cooperative policies
 - Share this vision with friends, family, and community organizations

The Plan: 25-Year Transformation

Phase 1 (2025-2035): Experimentation

- Launch pilots integrating AUBI with Community Work Teams
- Test industrial sunseting (phasing out fossil fuels)

- Demonstrate superior wellbeing and ecological outcomes

Phase 2 (2035-2045): Scaling

- 25% of population participating in Community Work Teams
- Replace 25% of gig platforms with democratic alternatives
- 20% of all jobs actively regenerating ecosystems

Phase 3 (2045-2055): Global Integration

- 50% AUBI coverage worldwide
 - 30% of land under regenerative stewardship
 - Universal Flexible Time and cooperative work organization

Expected Outcomes

For Individuals:

- Freedom from survival anxiety and exploitative work
- Meaningful contribution to community and planetary health
- Flexible schedules respecting life rhythms and cultural practices
- Recognition and support for all types of valuable work

For Communities:

- Stronger social bonds and mutual support networks
- Local economic resilience and democratic decision-making
- Restored ecosystems and sustainable resource management
- Cultural preservation and Indigenous sovereignty

For the Planet:

- Rapid transition from extractive to regenerative economic activity
 - 30% of global land under ecological restoration by 2045
 - Industries aligned with planetary boundaries and future generations
 - Technology serving life rather than exploiting it

Framework Integration

Work in Liberation coordinates with other Global Governance Framework components:

- AUBI Framework: Provides economic security enabling meaningful work choices
- Financial Systems: Hearts/Leaves currencies recognizing care and ecological contributions
- Indigenous Governance: Traditional Ecological Knowledge guides all ecological work
- Treaty for Our Only Home: Enforces transition away from ecocidal industries
- Meta-Governance: Coordinates global standards while respecting local autonomy

Join the Transformation

The old economy extracts value from people and planet. The new economy generates value for people and planet.

Community Work Teams are forming worldwide. Indigenous communities are leading ecological restoration. Technology cooperatives are replacing extractive platforms. Universal basic income pilots are proving economic security enables creativity and care.

Your community needs what you have to offer. Your skills matter. Your care matters. Your vision of a better world matters.

The future of work is not something that happens to you—it's something you create with your neighbors, guided by ancient wisdom, supported by contemporary tools, and grounded in love for the generations yet to come.
